22th of February (Tuesday) 2013

Introduction

The contemporary issues related to the development are quite crucial and significant to understand in the context of India's existing scenario from the point of view of Nehruvian legacy played an important role in shaping the modern Indian nation. The program will consist of poster and paper presentation. The objective of the seminar is to provide a platform to students for exchange of ideas on previous and contemporary development. The purpose behind this is to bring researchers together to exchange ideas and perspectives on socio-economic and political issues. This will also encourage interdisciplinary work in development studies where scholars from social sciences and humanities scholars can participate and discuss their research projects.

We encourage the participants to participate in either of the aforementioned event based on the broad theme given below.

Broad themes of the Seminar

To build an understanding about the contemporary development issues, the Subject Association, Centre for Jawaharlal Nehru Studies intends to organize the seminar. The seminar is structured around the following broad themes. Participants can either present the Paper or participate in poster making on the following themes:

- Inclusive policy and development
- Political power & marginalization
- Cultural pluralism
- Food security and rapid industrialization

Interested scholars may submit a two page abstract by 15 February 2013. An expert committee will review the abstracts and shortlist the papers.
